FOUNDRY WILL MOVE TO MARION

Scott-Madden Company Will Combine With Keokuk, Iowa, Plant in Grant County Seat.

LOST TO RUSHVILLE AT LAST

All Owners Wanted Was to Sell $10,000 in Preferred Stock to Remain Here.

While Rushville is standing idly by, one of its best and most valuable industries is preparing to slip easily out of its grasp. In other words, the Scott-Madden foundry will be moved to Marion, where it will be combined with the much larger plant, owned by the same company from Keokuk, Iowa. The two plants will be combined in the old Ball Brothers fruit jar factory in that city, which is much larger than is needed to accommodate the local concern and the one from Iowa.

The contract has been signed by the Scott-Madden owners to move the plant there and all that develops upon the Marion Commercial club is to raise thirty thousand dollars in subscriptions to be used to purchase preferred stock in the company. The managers of the local concern do not ask for a bonus. All they ask is that the citizens of Marion buy thirty thousand dollars worth of their preferred stock, which Marion business men have promised to do, providing the two plants are moved to that city. The Scott-Madden owners even buy the old building into which they will move. They are to pay ten thousand dollars for that, which will be taken in preferred stock by the Ball Brothers of Muncie, who have vacated the building at Marion, with the understanding that the Scott-Madden company will redeem the stock after five years, a certain amount to be paid on the sum each year.

So it is readily seen how softly, what gave promise to be one of the most thriving industries which ever graced Rushville with its presence, is gradually oozing out to a more industrious city. The factory, the one which is here now and the Keokuk, Iowa, plant, all combined in one here, could have been had by citizens of Rushville had they cared for it and for a much smaller sum than Marion will pay for it. All the owners asked of Rushville was that her people subscribe for ten thousand dollars worth of stock. With that consideration, they would move the Iowa plant here, buy more ground and combine the two. They have been working noiselessly for several months and finally gave up in disgust when several prominent business men, retail merchants and manufacturers as well, turned a deaf ear to them.

What of the Scott-Madden future, which would have been the same, had it remained in Rushville? They have now at both plants, as many orders as they can handle. Aside from that they have the rights to manufacture the famous Kersey steam shovel, six of which have already been contracted for. They range in price from five to fifteen thousand dollars each. The local owners have secured the rights and patents from the Kersey Steam Shovel Company and will exclusively manufacture them, when they are once established in Marion.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight. Wednesday increasing cloudiness with rising temperature.

MUST WRAP PACKAGES.

The wrapping of the packages to be given away by the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund will be started in the old Carmichael room, recently purchased by John B. Winship, in Main street tomorrow morning. There will be over three hundred packages to sort and wrap which means much work. That branch will be in charge of Mrs. Owen Kincaid. Anyone who will assist in the work is requested to call on Mrs. Kincaid and offer their services. The wrapping will be started tomorrow morning and will continue all day or until it is almost completed. The finishing touches will be put on Friday. Last night the services of the Tri Kappas were asked and many of them readily agreed to assist tomorrow.

HAD NOT MET FOR TWENTY-TWO YEARS

Andrew Noah of Waubeek, Ia., Visited His Brother John, in St. Paul, After Long Absence.

Andrew M. Noah, of Waubeek, Ia., is at St. Paul visiting his brother, John J. Noah. It is the first time the brothers have met for twenty-two years. When Andrew arrived at the county-line town he inquired where his brother was. Being informed that he was employed in a meat market, he went there and at once recognized John behind the counter. Andrew opened a conversation by telling John that he had a meat market in Shelbyville that he would like to dispose of. John told him that he was not desirous of making such an investment and advised him to look elsewhere for a buyer. Andrew however, insisted on trying to force a sale. He kept up a sort of monologue for about fifteen minutes and then asked John if he did not know him. John answered in the negative. Andrew then told him that he was his long lost brother and proved it by showing his wrist, which had been dislocated when a boy and had never been properly set. This settled it and John grabbed Andrew by the hand. The brothers had heard from each other at long intervals, but this was their first meeting in twenty-two years.

'ALIAS MAN' IS CAUGHT AGAIN

WANTED THERE FOR FORGERY

Smooth Gent, Who Talked His Way to Freedom Here, is in Toils Once More.

At last Mr. Younger-Sayner-Fayer-Acker and Young, the only original "alias man," who was released by the local authorities last Friday, after he was arrested in New Castle on suspicion and later returned here to answer to a charge, preferred by Miss Mary Scanlan of the Scanlan House, for beating a board bill, is gazing from behind the bars in the Frankfort jail. He was arrested in Anderson and returned to Frankfort, where a charge was made against him by the editor of the Frankfort News, for forgery.

Last Friday afternoon Sheriff Clata Bebout received a telephone message shortly after Young had been released by the local police, from the Anderson sheriff, stating that the man arrested in New Castle should be held until he arrived to get him. The sheriff said over the phone that Young was wanted in Anderson on a charge of bigamy and that his real name was Clifford Echert. Sheriff Bebout regretted it very much, but he had to tell the Anderson official that the crook had been released a short time previous to that. It is very evident that the Anderson authorities were not after the man here, as he was arrested in Anderson and taken to Frankfort.

A special dispatch from Anderson to the New Castle Courier yesterday stated that Arthur L. Young, alias A. L. Fayer, alias C. B. Acker, alias A. L. Sayner, alias Arthur L. Younger, who has been defrauding hotel keepers and newspapers in Indiana for several days past, is now firmly in the clutches of the law and will not succeed in talking his way to freedom as he did in Rushville last Friday. Young was arrested in Anderson Saturday and was turned over to Chief of Police Baker of Frankfort, where charges had been made against him by Robert A. Brown, editor of the Frankfort News. Mr. Brown came to Anderson and identified Young. He was taken back to Frankfort for trial.

According to the statement of Mr. Brown, Young secured employment from him by stating that he was a newspaper man. He was put to work soliciting advertising and printing. Young by alleged forgery of orders, secured commission and decamped. He was traced to Indianapolis and there was lost sight of. He went to Greensburg and from there to Rushville, where he beat a board bill at the Scanlan Hotel. He went to New Castle from Rushville, where he was arrested and was turned over to the Rushville police, who permitted the prisoner to get away. Young went to Anderson from Rushville and his arrest followed.

Young stated that he was married and had a wife and two children in Scranton, Pa.

WOULDN'T IT FREEZE YOU?

New Castle Courier: They say that what Chief Burr remarked when he heard the Rushville officers had turned that alias man loose, would look real warm in cold type.

New York's restaurant business is said to be five times greater than London's.

TRACES HORSE ALL OVER COUNTY

Alva Noble of Near Arlington Locates Valuable Colt Near Laurel After Two Day's Search.

ROBBERS MANAGES TO ESCAPE

Farmer Catches Thief With Horse But He Takes to Wilderness, Leaving Property.

Alva Noble, living one mile south of Arlington believes that she should be president or at least chief of the scouts of the Horse Thief's Detective Association. Such recognition might be merited since he has proven that he is a horse thief tracer of the class that is not often found. Saturday night, a thief stole a valuable colt out of his pasture. Last night late he caught the thief with his horse down in the hills near Laurel. The robber escaped, but he got his horse, brought it back here this morning and, stopping here for a time, went on to his home this afternoon, like a conquering hero.

Late Saturday evening one of Noble's colts, which he keeps in a pasture quite a distance from his home, came walking up the road. He knew that it could not jump the fence so he went to see how it had escaped. He found the gate open and the best colt of the two; a two-year-old, gone. With a lantern he searched that neighborhood and, failing to find any trace of it, he decided that it had been stolen.

Returning Sunday morning, he found marks on the road where the colt's feet had scraped along the road, evidently refusing to be led. He started in pursuit, tracing the fleeing robber all over that end of the county. Not discouraged, he returned home Sunday night and started out again yesterday morning. All day long he traveled, in various places getting traces of his stolen horse and the man who had it.

He was driving down toward the foot hills of Laurel in Franklin county, when he was rewarded with the sight of his colt. He had just driven up over the top of a knoll when he saw his horse, contesting every step of the way, being led behind a buggy, drawn by a poor, bony horse. Suddenly he saw the buggy stop, a man jump out, climb the fence at the side of the road. He did not even attempt to follow the thief but got that, for which he had been hunting for two days, his horse. He led the robber's horse and buggy and his colt down to Laurel, where he stayed all night. He left the outfit there and returned to Rushville this morning with his colt.

The poor, bony horse and old buggy are in the livery stable at Laurel, awaiting the call of its owners. It is not very probable that the master will ever call, for then it will be possible to find the thief, for the marshall there is in ambuscade.

SANTA CLAUS LORE.

Next Friday, the Republican will publish a very interesting and original article—a new chapter in the vast amount of Christmas and Santa Claus literature. This article will present facts hitherto never touched upon by any writer. It will shed new light on the Santa Claus character, and Christmas customs in other lands. Do not fail to read it.

WHO WANTS TO WORK?

The managers of the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund are facing a new situation, the problem of delivering the gifts which have been purchased with the subscriptions. A call is extended to anyone who will donate their services to the good of the cause. The money has been subscribed, the gifts purchased and they will be wrapped tomorrow, but the worst end of the job comes Saturday afternoon, when the packages will be distributed. Last year the delivering was done on Christmas for various reasons. Automobiles or wagons will be acceptable as any means of locomotion may be used to make the children happy. Persons may also donate their services to assist in the delivering. At Connersville, Ye Motor Shop, an auto shop there, will furnish enough machines to deliver all of the gifts purchased by the News Santa Claus fund of that city. Persons who will help are requested to communicate with the Daily Republican office at once.

EDITOR RETURNS FROM REVIVAL

The Andersonville Herald Will Once More Resume Publication After Three Weeks' Suspension.

F. WILSON KALER HERE TODAY

F. Wilson Kaler, editor of the Andersonville Herald, passed through here today enroute to his home from Lafayette. Mr. Kaler has been conducting a revival meeting near Lafayette for the past three weeks and the publication of the Herald was suspended until his return. It is expected that the paper will appear in time for the annual Christmas edition.

Mr. Kaler left the revival in charge of the Rev. S. L. Offutt, who has been assisting him and it will be brought to a close this week.

IT'S A GOOD OLD HORSE AFTER ALL

Ran Away and Then Waited Patiently in Front of a Mail Box For the Driver.

HAD VISIONS OF A LONG "HIKE"

Lewis Cline carrier on rural route number nine had a thrilling experience this morning which almost caused him to walk several miles into the city.

Mr. Cline got very cold while delivering the mail and as he did not have a heater with him he thought it best to get out and walk, thus creating some heat. Well he had no more than gotten out when the horse started to run and the more Mr. Cline yelled, the faster went the horse. Cline was left far in the rear and had visions of a long "hike" to the city. He walked about a mile and found his horse stopped before a mail box, patiently waiting for Mr. Cline to give word to go ahead.

The average locomotive consists of about 5,416 pieces.

If one hundred and fifty dollars for the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund is reached by the time the fund closes, which is next Friday evening, it will be necessary for the small donors to get in some more of their good work. It is the one hope of the managers that the subscriptions of last year may be equaled this year. Two large donations helped materially today, but it is urged that some more of the little folks come in with their mite to help the cause along.

The buyers are gradually finishing up their work and almost all of the money which has been received so far has been expended. The several women, permanent charity workers, were busy this afternoon, buying the last big order of goods which will be used to supply the youngsters who were not at first counted on. The women in charge of the lists, just finished them last night, and have found that 328 needy children are in Rushville who will not have a pleasant Christmas if the Daily Republican Santa Claus wagon does not stop on Christmas eve.

The preparation of the gifts for delivery will be begun tomorrow morning in the old Carmichael room, recently purchased by John B. Winship, who so kindly permitted the work to be done there. The packages will be displayed in the windows there just as soon as they are prepared.

There is considerable speculation as to what the penny boxes will add to the amount this year. They have all been doing duty on several street corners and will be opened tomorrow afternoon by Mayor B. A. Black. Tonight's the last opportunity to donate by that route.

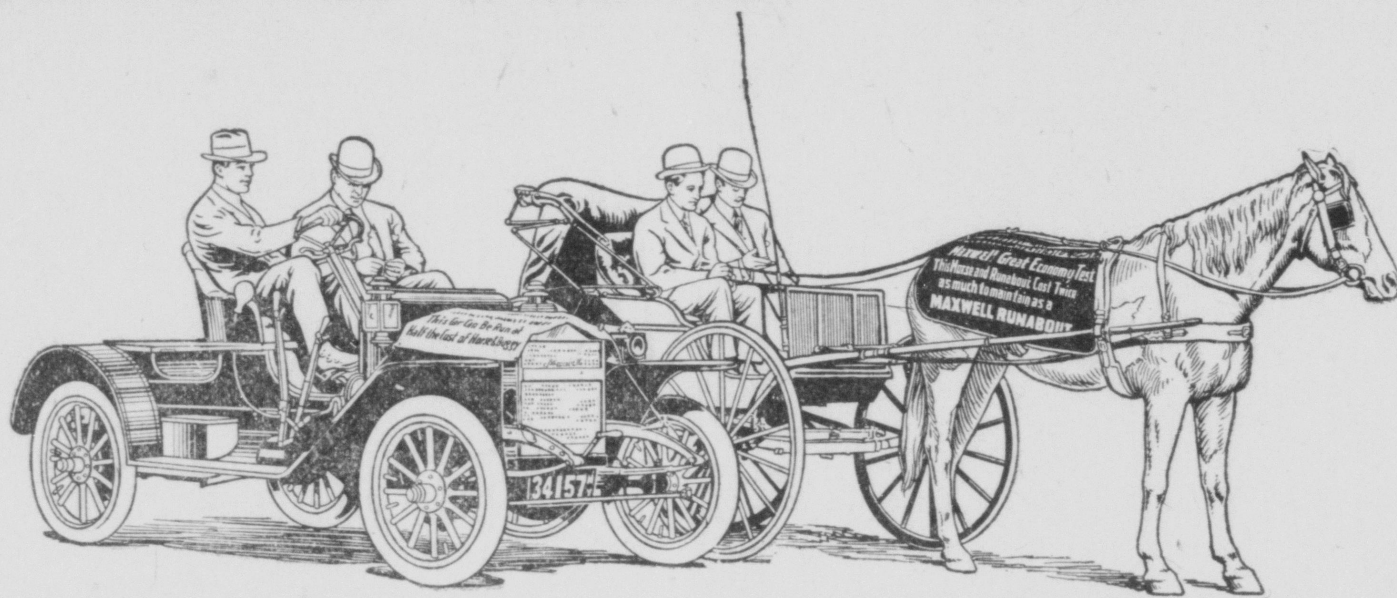

The managers of the fund are disappointed by the fact that the beautiful hammered brass writing desk set in Hargrove and Mallin's window has not been bid on more frequently. So far the highest bid is three dollars, while the donor, Louis H. Thatcher, would hesitate to part with the set for less than five dollars.

AUTOMOBILE vs. HORSE

Your First Opportunity to Buy a 4-Cylinder 22 Horse Power Automobile Which Has Been Proved Cheaper to Use Than a Horse and Buggy

IN AN OPEN AND HONEST TEST—A TEST CONDUCTED BY DISINTERESTED PARTIES—THE MAXWELL-BRISCOE MOTOR COMPANY PROVED THAT A MAXWELL MODEL Q-11 COSTS LESS TO USE THAN A HORSE. NO OTHER AUTOMOBILE COMPANY HAS SUCH PROOF TO GIVE YOU—NO OTHER GIVES YOU POSITIVE EVIDENCE ON THIS VITAL POINT—NONE OTHER SUBMITS ACTUAL CERTIFIED FIGURES TO BACK THEIR CLAIMS. WE DO. HERE THEY ARE.

WE KNEW A MAXWELL MODEL Q-11 COSTS LESS TO KEEP THAN A HORSE—KNEW IT FROM OUR OWN TESTS—KNEW IT BECAUSE HUNDREDS OF SATISFIED OWNERS SUBMITTED THEIR COST RECORDS TO PROVE IT—BUT THAT WAS NOT ENOUGH. WE WANTED TO SHOW BY A PUBLIC TEST, CONDUCTED UNDER CONTROL OF THE AMERICAN AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION, JUST WHAT THIS ASTOUNDING CAR COULD DO. WE WANTED TO MAKE THIS TEST SO CONVINCING AS TO LEAVE NO ROOM FOR ARGUMENT—WE PROVED OUR CASE.

The Test

We invited the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association to conduct this test in order that it might be in absolutely disinterested control. The board appointed judges to attest its results.

The two vehicles ran each day over a predetermined route. Each ran continuously for six hours, regarded as a normal day's work. Account was kept of every item of expense. The needs of each vehicle were supplied at roadside stores—at current prices.

Each day a different route was laid out, to cover all conditions of city and suburban traffic and all sorts of roads. One day they covered the densely congested districts of the city; another day infrequently traveled suburban roads.

Everything was done to make the test normal, fair and conclusive.

The final analysis of the value of a motor car is what the man who owns one says—Maxwell owners are satisfied owners. They know the "Square Deal" policy of the company. When 38,719 owners say to you "Buy a Maxwell," YOU can rely on THEIR VERDICT.

Here are a few excerpts from the many letters we receive, the original of which are on file in our office:

"I don't believe that a horse and buggy can come any where near doing my work as the Maxwell has."—J. C. Wallace.

"I have used a Maxwell car for three years—it is more economical than a horse."—J. G. Herchelroth.

"The Maxwell is the most serviceable car."—Dr. A. E. Chase.

"Have run over 7,000 miles. It costs me about one cent a mile to operate."—N. L. Moore.

"Am one of the oldest automobile drivers in the state of Iowa. Have owned six cars, the last two being Maxwells. They are the ideal car."—G. M. VanAusdall.

"I go anywhere a horse and buggy goes, and pull through black, thick mud with more pleasure and speed than with a creeping and panting horse."—J. F. Hines, M. D.

"I covered 1,800 miles at a cost of $20.15, including gas, oil, tire expenses and repair bills."—B. A. Lieberman.

"One Maxwell does the work of three horses with what it would cost with one horse."—J. H. Hall.

☛ The verdict of so many people must be right. Buy a Maxwell Model Q-11 now, it will save you time and money.

What Owners Say

Why Pay More

Here is a car costing but $900 that's just as strong and reliable as the largest and most expensive touring cars.

You can drive it from here to California and back—we state positively that you will not meet a road or hill that can be traveled, that this car cannot negotiate. Maxwell owners make these hard trips. One owner made the tour around the world in his Maxwell.

We want to drive this point home: You can't buy a more reliable, durable and serviceable machine than this new Model Q-11 at $900.

You can buy bigger cars, but that means more expense; you can buy faster cars, but this new Q-11 can do 45 miles per hour; but YOU CAN'T BUY any car that will give you more solid satisfaction than this new Maxwell, as an all-around utility car. Power, speed, reliability, endurance—it has them all.

Why pay more for a big car that you don't need, that's expensive to keep, hard to drive and that you DON'T REALLY WANT—WHY?

Here is What We Proved:

Maxwell Q-11 per Passenger Mile $1\frac{8}{10}$ Cents
Horse and Buggy per Passenger Mile $2\frac{1}{2}$ Cents

The nation's defenses are called weak by the war department, but the absence of an inquisitive turn of mind is often as good protection as any guns can be.

A great stir was made a few days ago about a war scare and the unpreparedness of the United States. President Taft says the present alarm over deficiency in the army and navy departments, is a tempest in a

LOCAL PEOPLE INTERESTED

Asking For Restraining Order to Prevent Transfer of Company's Holdings to Surety Co.

The three suits for receiver of the Automobile Insurance Company of America, stock in which many local people own, and a petition for a restraining order to prevent the company from transferring its holdings to the Federal Union Surety Company of Indianapolis are taking up the time of a superior court judge in Indianapolis.

The Indianapolis Star says of the evidence introduced yesterday:

Relying on a precedent established by Judge Remster in the Rhodius case, when a change of venue was asked, Judge Collier, in Superior Court, Room 2, yesterday continued to hear the evidence in the receivership case of the Automobile Insurance Company of America without ruling on the application for a change of venue made by Edgar E. Hendee of Anderson, one of the defendants.

Judge Collier holds the theory of the law is that before a change of venue should be allowed all the issues of a case should be made up, as the change is for the trial only. Another question involved in the present receivership case is that the application is made on an alleged emergency, and the court holds it has the power to hear the evidence on the urgency of the need of a receiver before sending the case to another county. The evidence was completed yesterday and the arguments of the attorneys finished. Judge Collier will hand down his decision at 9 o'clock this morning.

David M. Parry, president of the Automobile Insurance Company went on the witness stand following Winfield T. Durbin, president of the Federal Union Surety Company, and Edgar E. Hendee of Anderson. In the arguments the attorneys for the plaintiffs called attention to the alleged fact that the meeting of the stockholders of the insurance company, the directors' meeting and the transfer to the Federal Surety Company were completed within a few hours. The attorneys talked at length on the alleged frauds perpetrated on the stockholders and also alleged the transfer of the assets of the company to the Federal company was beyond the power of the former concern, as it had never been a going company and was not insolvent.

Comment was made on the testimony of William P. Bidgood, secretary of the Automobile Insurance Company, that at the stockholders' meeting only 301 shares were represented in person, and that D. M. Parry held the proxies of 5,320 shares. Certificates had been issued for 8,840 shares, out of a total of 15,400 shares subscribed. It is the contention of the plaintiffs that the 15,400 shares should have been recognized as having the power to vote. The officers of the Automobile Insurance Company thought, that as long as the entire subscription price for these shares was not paid they had no voting power.

HOLD ANNUAL ELECTION.

Sunday afternoon, Bathsheba Chapter No. 37, O. E. S., held a meeting, and carried out a beautiful program commemorative of the birth of Christ. The meeting was largely attended, and the exceptionally beautiful program was highly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Caroline Williams read the greeting of the Grand Matron, Sarah J. Hale of Crawfordsville. Miss Cora Smith read the greeting of the Grand Patron, Walter H. Russell of Wabash. Miss Nannie Leggett sang a beautiful solo.

After appropriate songs, etc of the Chapter, and an impressive statement of the purposes of the occasion, Prof. J. H. Williams, Past Worthy Patron of the order, was introduced. He delivered a very eloquent and scholarly address, tracing out minutely the history of the order, and setting forth, in picturesque language the lofty purposes of this organization. Prof. Williams is especially well endowed for work of this kind, for he is an eloquent and forceful speaker, has a fine oratorical voice, and an excellent command of the "King's English." He has been for five years the Grand Lecturer of the colored masons of the State, and is generally regarded as the ablest they have yet had.

The Matron is Mrs. Meleta Bundrant. She is capable and studious; and has made a very excellent presiding officer. At the recent election held by the Chapter, she was re-elected. The following is the result of the elections: W. M., Mrs. Meleta Bundrant, assistant W. M., Mrs. Namin Ramey; cond., Miss Nannie Leggett; assistant cond., Mrs. Loduski Tracy; treasurer Mrs. Caroline Williams; secretary, Miss Cora Smith; Adah, Miss Fannie Ramey; Ruth, Mrs. Emma Smith; Esther, Mrs. Agatha Leggett; Martha, Mrs. Pinkie Bundrant; Electa, Miss Ida Miller; Warder, Mrs. Carrie Fredd; sentinel, Mr. Clint Marshall; patron, H. C. Bundrant. The installations will be made tonight.

Suddenly, he turned to his son: "Where is that thing that Donovan brought aboard with him just now?" he asked.

The blood-stained dart lay on the deck beside Tom's chair. He picked it up and held it out toward his father, but the elder man, with a gesture, indicated to Cayley that he was to take it in his hand; then: "Jeanne, my dear," he asked, "will you fetch out from the cabin the stick which dropped from Mr. Cayley's belt last night?"

When she had departed on the errand, he spoke to Cayley: "You will observe that the butt of this dart is not notched, as it would have to be if it were shot from a bow."

He did not look at Cayley's face as he spoke, but at his hands. Could it be possible, he wondered, that those hands could hold the thing with that sinister brown stain upon it—the stain of Perry Hunter's blood—without trembling? They were steady enough, though, so far as he could see.

When Jeanne came out with the stick, he handed that to Cayley also. "You will notice," he said, "that that dart and the groove in this stick were evidently made for each other, Mr. Cayley."

The pupils of Jeanne's eyes dilated as she watched the accused man fit them together, and then balance the stick in his hand, as if trying to discover how it could be put to so deadly a use as Mr. Fanshaw had indicated. He seemed preoccupied by nothing more than a purely intellectual curiosity.

His coolness seemed to anger Mr. Fanshaw, as it had formerly angered his son. For a moment this sudden anger of his rendered him almost inarticulate. Then:

"We don't want a demonstration!" came like the explosions of a quick-fir gun. "And you have no need for trying experiments. You knew how nicely that dart would fit in the groove that was cut for it. You know, altogether too well, what the stain is that discolors it. You know where we found that dart. You're only surprised that it was ever found at all—it and the body of the man it slew."

"Everything you say is perfectly true," said Cayley, very quietly. "I am surprised that the body of the man was ever recovered. I'm a little surprised, also, that you should think, because this stick fell from my belt last night, and this dart, which you found transfixing a man's throat this morning—"

Tom Fanshaw interrupted him. His eyes were blazing with excitement. "It was not from us that you learned that that dart transfixed the murdered man's throat!" he cried.

"I knew it, nevertheless," said Cayley in that quiet voice, not looking toward the man he answered, but still keeping his eyes on old Mr. Fanshaw. "And also a little surprised," he went on, as if he had not been interrupted, "that you should think, because this guessed what their intent was, guessed that it was something sinister, it was done before I could interfere. I saw him going backwards over the brink of a fissure in the ice, tugging at a dart that was in his throat. And when they had gone—his murderers—

"They?" she cried. "Was there more than one?"

"Yes," he said, "there was a party. There must have been ten or twelve at least. When they had gone I flew down and picked up that stick, which one of them had dropped—And to think I might have saved him!"

Her hand still rested on his arm. "I'm glad you told me," she said. She felt the arm stiffen suddenly at the sound of Tom Fanshaw's voice.

"Jeanne, take your hand away! Can you touch a man like that? Can you believe the lies—" but there, with a peremptory gesture, his father silenced him.

But even he exclaimed at the girl's next action, for she stooped, picked up the blood-stained dart which lay at Philip Cayley's feet, and handed it to him. "Throw it away, please"—she said, "overboard, and as far as you can."

Even before the other men cried out at his doing the thing she had asked him to, he hesitated and looked at her in some surprise.

"Do it, please," she commanded; "I ask it seriously."

Tom Fanshaw started out of his chair; then, as an intolerable twinge from his ankle stopped him, he dropped back again. His father moved quickly forward, too, but checked himself, the surprise in his face giving way to curiosity. At a general thing, Jeanne Fielding knew what she was about.

Philip Cayley took the dart and threw it far out into the water.

There was one more surprise in store for the two Fanshaws. When Cayley, without a glance toward either of them, walked out on the upper landing of the accommodation ladder, the girl accompanied him, and, side by side with him, descended the little stairway, at whose foot the dinghy waited.

"You are still determined on that resolution of yours, are you, to abandon us all for the second time—all humankind, I mean? This later accusation against you was so easily disproved."

"Disproved?" he questioned. "That beautiful faith of yours can't be called proof."

"I meant just what I said—disproved. They shall admit it when I go back on deck. Won't you—won't you give us a chance to disbelieve the old story, too?"

"I can never explain that now," he said; "can never lay that phantom, never in the world."

"I am sorry," she said holding out her hand to him. "I wish you'd give us a chance. Goodbye."

This time he took the hand, bowed over it and pressed it lightly to his lips. Then, without any other farewell than that, he dropped down into dinghy and was rowed back to the ice—back to his wings.

When she returned to the deck she found that Mr. Fanshaw had gone around to the other side of it to see the sky-man take to the air.

But Tom sat, rigid, where he was. For the first time that she could remember, he was regarding her with open anger. "I knew," he said, "that you never liked Hunter, though I never could see why you should dislike him; and it didn't take two minutes to see that this man Cayley, with his wings and his romance, had fascinated you. But in spite of that, I thought you had a better sense of justice than you showed just now."

She flushed a little. "My sense of justice seems to be better than yours this morning, Tom," she answered quietly. Then she unsling her binoculars again and, turning her back upon him, gazed out shoreward.

This Means You

We invite especially those apparently hopeless cases where all forms of plasters, inhalers, patent smoke preparations and other high-priced medicines have failed. We want to show just such people, the hard to cure people, that our new method will end all difficult breathing, all wheezing, such as accompanies catarrh, asthma, and colds that there is a simple remedy that sells for a dime, Dr. Price's Plex, that will relieve their trouble. Give your druggist 10c and begin the cure today.

ARE YOU DEAF?

Catarrh is Probably the Cause. Get Rid of the Cause.

If you have catarrh and have constant ringing noises in your ears look into the matter at once.

It's a pretty sure sign that catarrh is spreading and is making its way through the Eustachian tubes that lead from the nose to the ears partial deafness follows. If you have ringing noises in your ears go to Johnson's Drug Store today and get HYOMEI outfit and drive out catarrh.

To cure catarrh HYOMEI should be breathed through a pocket inhaler for a few minutes, four or five times a day. Just pour a few drops into the hard rubber inhaler and breathe it.

It kills the germs; soothes the irritation; heals the inflammation; stops hawking, spitting and snuffling.

HYOMEI keeps the throat free from mucus and prevents crusts in nose.

The complete HYOMEI outfit which includes the little indestructible hard rubber inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEI and simple instructions for use, costs $1.00. Separate bottles of HYOMEI costs 50 cents at druggists everywhere, or at Johnson's Drug Store on Money back plan.

"I am getting worried about our shore party," she remarked, as if by way of discontinuing the quarrel. "If there are ten or twelve men living there, in hiding from us, willing to do unprovoked murder, when they can with impunity—"

"So you believed that part of the story, too, did you?" Tom interrupted. She did not answer his question at all, but turned her attention shoreward again.

A moment later she closed her binoculars with a snap, and walked around to the other side of the deck, where Mr. Fanshaw, leaning his elbows on the rail, was looking out across the ice-floe.

"Well," he asked briskly, as she came up and laid an affectionate arm across his shoulder, "I suppose you've been telling Tom why you did it—why you made Cayley throw that dart away, I mean; but you'll have to tell me, too. I can't figure it out. You had something in mind, I'm sure."

"I haven't been telling Tom," she said. "He doesn't seem in a very reasonable mood this morning. But I did have something in mind. I was proving that Mr. Cayley couldn't possibly be the man who had committed the murder."

"I suspected it was that," he said. "It's the stick that proves it really," she said. "You remember how puzzled you were because the end of it which you held it by wouldn't fit your hand? I discovered why that was when you sent me in to get it a short while ago. It's a left-handed stick. It fits the palm of your left hand perfectly. You'll find that that is so when you try it. And Mr. Cayley is right-handed."

The old man nodded rather dubiously. "Cayley may be ambidextrous, for anything you know," he objected.

She had her rejoinder ready: "But this stick, Uncle Jerry, dear, was made for a man who couldn't throw with his right hand, and Mr. Cayley can. He did it perfectly easily, and without suspecting at all why I wanted him to. Don't you see? Isn't it clear?"

"It's quite clear that the brains of this expedition are in that pretty head of yours," he said. "Yes, I think you're right." Then, after a pause, he added, with an enigmatical look at her: "Don't be too hard on Tom, my dear, because you see the circumstances are hard enough on him already."

She made a little gesture of impatience. "They're not half as hard on him as they are on Mr. Cayley."

"Oh, I don't know," the old gentleman answered. "Take it by and large, I should say that Cayley was playing in luck."

MANY ACCIDENTS HUNTING SEASON

More Than Usual Number of People Have Been Killed, Generally Through Carelessness.

SHOULD USE EXTREME CARE

Since the hunting season opened a month ago, there have been scores of reports of people hurt or killed in different parts of the State as a result of hunting accidents. A large number of these are boys and in many of the reports of these accidents, one can trace carelessness as one of the chief factors in causing the accident. Pointing guns at others in a playful manner or handling a gun in a careless manner results many times in death to a person who is in no way responsible for the accident or at least injures them seriously. Every person who uses a gun or has one about their home cannot be too careful about handling and using the same, especially while other persons are near as such persons are always in danger.

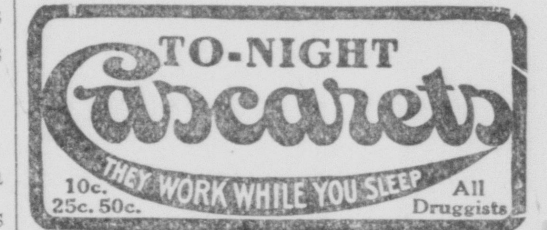

By way of experiment a California railroad ordered 67,000 railroad ties from Australia, made of ironback, a very durable hard wood.

HERE IS A REMEDY THAT WILL CURE ECZEMA

Why waste time and money experimenting with greasy salves and lotions, trying to drive the eczema germ from underneath the skin when Wolcott's Drug Store guarantees ZEMO, a clean liquid preparation for external use to rid the skin of the germ life that causes the trouble? One application will relieve the itching and often times one bottle is sufficient to cure a minor case of eczema.

ZEMO is sold by druggists everywhere and in Rushville by Wolcott's Drug Store and they will tell you of the marvelous cures made by this clean, simple treatment. ZEMO and ZEMO soap are recognized as the cleanest and most popular treatment for eczema, pimples, dandruff and all other forms of skin or scalp affections whether on infant or grown person. Will you try ZEMO and ZEMO soap on our recommendation and guarantee of satisfaction or your money back? Wolcott's Drug Store.

RENO NOT IN IT.

There are countries where there is no need of a Reno, if one can believe Julius Caesar Nayphe, an oriental who lectured recently in Indianapolis. According to this authority a Mohammedan has but to say "bosh" three times to his wife and point to the door, and he is already divorced. Think of the simplicity of it; no traveling expenses or troublesome lawsuits! If mere conversion to Mohammedanism would serve to bring this privilege we doubt not many of the suffering ones would quickly change faith.

COLORED MASONS ELECT OFFICERS

Oriental Lodge, F. and A. M. Which Has Been Successful, Plans Organization of Chapter.

WAS STARTED HERE IN 1906

Oriental Lodge, F. and A. M., has, since its organization here in 1906, enjoyed a successful career. It was organized by Prof. J. H. Williams, with Rev. T. T. Carpenter as its Worshipful Master. The Second Worshipful Master was Joseph Tracy. The next Worshipful Master was H. C. Bundrant, who has been quite successful in his office and has just been re-elected for a second time.

At the election just held the following officers were chosen: H. C. Bundrant, W. M.; Luther Ramey, S. W.; Gerard Easley, J. W.; H. C. Ramey, Treasurer; James H. Williams, secretary; George Easley, Jr., S. D.; H. L. Bundrant, J. D.; Wilson Bundant, S. S.; Ben Ramey, J. S.; Clint Marshall, Tyler.

The lodge is in a prosperous condition, and has under consideration, now, plans for the organization of a Chapter and Commandery.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace will have a Lubin film for tonight entitled "Caught by the Camera." This is a fine Western drama and is said to be well acted. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Vaudet management will offer its usual big double program this evening with two big Bison feature films, each one thousand feet in length. "The Mascot of Company D" is a war time picture, replete with human interest. "The Wolves of the Sea" is a thrilling drama. Its title is suggestive of the story which is told by the picture. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Star Grand offers a Bison Indian drama tonight entitled "An Indian Maiden's Choice." It is a true Indian story, in which the hand of Fawn is sought by two suitors. White Antelope is favored and Gray Wolf, with savage persistency, tries to take the girl by force. There is "something doing" between those two rivals, but in the end White Antelope vanquishes Gray Wolf and spares his life in answer to the pleadings of Fawn. Extra—Jack Roberts in song and dance. Earl Robertson will sing "Somebody Else It's Always Somebody Else."
